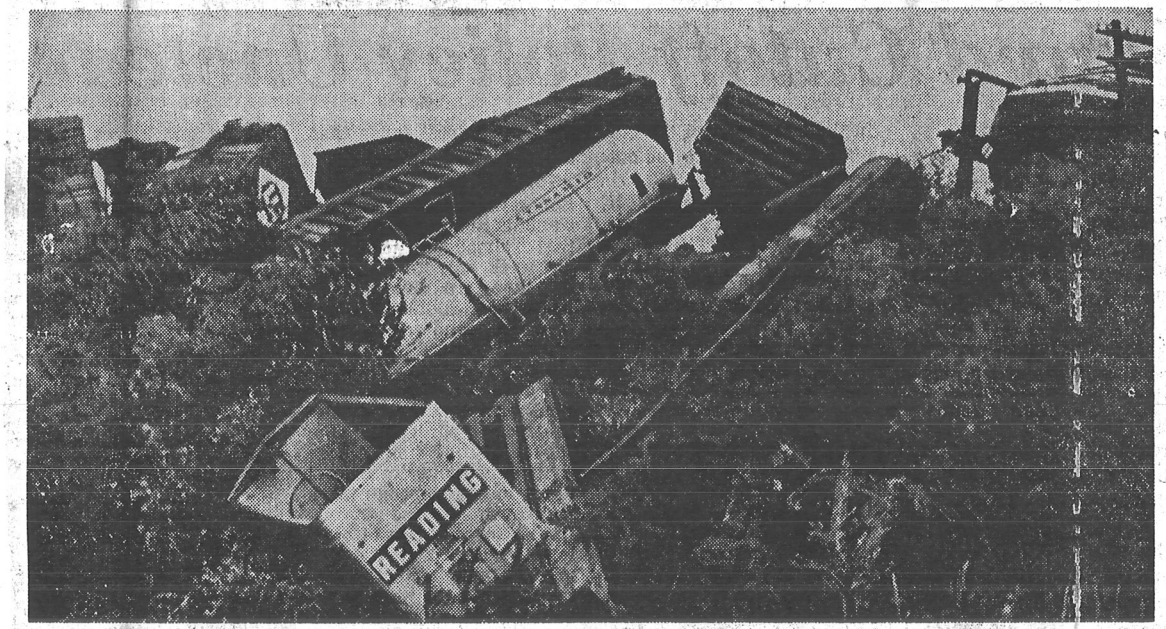
THE WASHINGTON POST
Monday, Aug. 18, 1969 A 7



Associated Press

Danger Waits in Midst of Pile-Up

Emergency crews stood by yesterday near Cambridge Springs, Pa., where a tankcar of potentially toxic vinyl cyanide was among 26 freight cars derailed. The wreck scene is only a short distance from French Creek, the city's drinking water source. Officials of American Cyanamid Corp. arrived yesterday to supervise removal of the dangerous cargo.